

Dr Rumbidzai Mangoyi

Dr Rumbidzai Mangoyi is a senior lecturer at the University of Zimbabwe and is currently working on enzymes from filamentous fungi for industrial use. She also specializes in ethnomedicine. Dr Mangoyi has managed to publish eleven papers with different refereed journals and has also contributed to a book chapter. She is also a reviewer who has reviewed many articles for different journals. She has attended many invited national and international conferences. She has supervised a number of postgraduate students in her laboratory. Dr Mangoyi is an executive member of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Society of Zimbabwe.