

Biography

Dr Ng Zhi Xiang is currently an Assistant Professor at the School of Biosciences, Faculty of Sciences and Engineering, University of Nottingham Malaysia. He obtained his Doctor of Philosophy in Molecular Biochemistry from Faculty of Medicine, University of Malaya and Postgraduate Certificate in Higher Education (PGCHE) from University of Nottingham. He started his career as a lecturer in Department of Biomedical Sciences, MAHSA College. He is currently an active member of Malaysian Scientific Association (MSA) and a Fellow of Higher Education Academy (United Kingdom). His current research interests relate to both human nutrition and health that fall into three broad areas: food sciences, molecular nutrition, metabolic diseases risk factors and biomarkers. Dr Ng has 10 years of research experience in health and food sciences with an h-index of 11, i10 index of 11 and a cumulative 295 publication citations (Google scholar, May 2021). The significance of his work has been recognized in a number of high impact scholarly publications (all ISI and Scopus cited), conferences and symposia.

Scopus author ID: 39262232700

