

Prof. Dr. Adil Denizli was born on 1962 in Ankara. He has completed elementary and high schools in Ankara. He graduated from Chemical Engineering Department of Hacettepe University in 1985. He has completed his MSc in 1986 with the studies on “Controlled Delivery of Anticancer Drugs from Polymeric Matrices”. He has finished his PhD “Specific Sorbents for Hemoperfusion” in 1992. He became an Associate Professor of Chemical Technologies in 1994. Dr. Denizli is the Hacettepe University Department of Chemistry Professor since 2000. Dr. Denizli has written over 460 articles and 4 invited review articles and 22 book chapters. He published 40 research articles in national journals and 80 popular science articles. He has 2 patents. He is one of the most cited scientists in chemistry and engineering field (12500 citations, over 1000 citations in handbooks, encyclopedias, books and thesis, h-index of 53). He served as an associated member of the Turkish Academy of Sciences from 1999 to 2007, and as a full member since 2007. Dr. Denizli has received “TUBITAK Encouragement Award” in 1998 for his studies on “Biomedicine, Biotechnology and Environmental Applications of Polymeric Matrices”. He also received TUBITAK Science Award and Basic Science Award of Popular Science Magazine in 2006. He elected as the most publishing scientist of Hacettepe University between 1995-2005 by COMSTECH. He is an editor of the “Protein Chromatography and New Generation Polymeric Systems” book (Pozitif Press, 2010) and the writer of “Bioseparation and Polymeric Carriers” (Turkish Academy of Sciences Press, 2011) and “Affinity Based Biosensors” (2015) books, translation editor of “Stryer’s Biochemistry” (Palme Press, 2014) and “Principles of Chemistry: A Molecular Approach” (Nobel Press, 2015) books. He is an Editorial Board Member of 25 journals. He has supervised 54 Master of Science and 34 PhD theses and 4 post Doctoral research up to now. He organized 15 “Chromatography Congress” and 9 “Affinity Techniques” congress, 2 Graduate Summer Schools and 4 Graduate Course. He is married with Dr. Fatma Denizli and has a one child (Alp Denizli).